MANCHESTER IS OPPOSED TO TRADEMARK BARGAINING

Chamber Resents Action Of Minority In Commons

RELIES ON CHINA

Registrations To Be Deferred Pending Negotiations

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—The Manchester Chamber of Commerce today sent to the Foreign Office a resolution expressing grave apprehension at the action of the minority of 56 Members of the House of Commons on June 16 in voting against the second reading of the China Indemnity Application Bill, and expressing disagreement with the reason offered for such action. It says that to delay the carrying out of the promise made on behalf of Britain to China in 1922 would not only be undignified, but would assuredly bring discredit upon Britain. The Chamber holds that to turn such an act of grace into a means of bargaining would not assist out, on the contrary, would prejudice unfavorably the negotiations now pending with regard to new Chinese trademarks legislation. The Chamber is of the opinion that the possibility of a satisfactory outcome to the negotiations lies in the maintenance of a mutually friendly attitude.

Although the news that the Chinese Government has decided to extend the period for registration of old trademarks to December 31 has not yet been officially confirmed, the Chamber has advised its members not to take any further immediate action but to maintain their previous attitude, namely, not to register under the Act in its present form, pending negotiations during the next six months with a view to securing the reforms of the law which are considered necessary in order to render the new Chinese law workable.

South Africa To Appoint "European Envoy" Says Paper

(Reuter's Service)

Says Ireland Must Stay Within Empire

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, dealing with Irish representation at Washington, said that there seemed to be an impression that, if the Irish Republic asked for it, it would be conceded. It should be understood that any such demand would receive the same reply as he believed would be received from either of the two previous Governments. The Government believed that peace and friendship could be maintained in Ireland by the establishment of the Free State as a self-governing Dominion in the British Commonwealth and in no other way.

Spirit Sayings Recorded At Psychic Session Here

Five minutes after the time scheduled for their appearance, and following a spirit apology for the delay, Woodrow Wilson, William Shakespeare, Jesus Christ and Henry W. Longfellow, in the order named, transmitted messages through two mediums, by means of a planchette writiag in the sand, to a group of astounded foreigners and hundreds of Chinese.

This remarkable demonstration, conducted with the greatest reverence for the God of the Christians who deigned to give His message, and respect for the great dead who also gave worthy-to-be-remembered quotations, from their works, occurred yesterday afternoon in the beautiful Rock Gardens in the Chinese City.

For seven days this week the Shanghai Spiritualist Society is foregathering in these gardens, which have been turned over to their uses by the Rice Merchants' Guild whose premises they are. They are broadcasting an appeal to all the faithful of the five principal religions of China to come to the gardens during this holy week and pray for universal peace. Every day the excessive fervor generated is sufficient to induce several spirits to give vital messages, either in the modern languages or Chinese, or, if the spirit seeks higher artistic expression, through spirit drawings and paintings.

Throughout the grounds are shrines dedicated to the worship of the Confucian, Buddhist, Taoist, Mohemmedon and Christian religions and all day and most of the night pilgrim adherents of these various sects visit the shrines and pray. The shrines are beautifully decorated with hanging silk banners and scrolls, dim yellow lanterns and thousands of winking joss candles and tapers. Incense and joss sticks lift up thin blue fingers of smoke in patient, continuous silent adoration. Everywhere are whole families, kowtowing in turn, from parents to youngest toddler, in their great general appeal for universal peace. Hundreds of priests and monks, and many holy women have come from monasteries in Shanghai and nearby to pray continuously in this week of devotion.

The ceremonies are dignified and impressive. There is none of the blatant, ear-piercing worship so common in most of the every day religious ceremonies of the Chinese. There are present no whining beggars nor mendicant priests beseeching alms. The devotions are quiet, manifestly sincere and strikingly impressive. There is a solemn chanting that rises and falls with the rhythmic precision of the inrush and outgo of waves; there is an occasional booming gong, a frequent silvery chime and over all the myriad soft noises is the real mysticism of the Orient that countless writers have told of but which is rapidly disappearing in these great port cities.

In the Rock Gardens yesterday it was given to the few foreigners who ventured inside to see a China that is as ancient as the China of Marco Polo's day, in its mystic devotion to a great belief

THE PROPHET'S SWORD

After following a young Chinese student through the winding grottos and moon gates that make of the place a cool enchanted land, a thousand miles removed from the filth and scum and noise and squalor of the Native City just outside the walls, one comes to a simple shrine, higher up on its terrace than the shrines of the Buddhist, Confucian, Taoist and Christian religions below. Here, inside a yellow silk draped pavillion is simplicity itself, the shrine of Mohammed, with a single exquisite drawing of the sacred sword of the Prophet before which burns incense and sandalwood in a bronze jar. Scattered around are the prayer carpets of Mohammed's followers. Higher up, yet, on the rocks, and, appropriately enough, at the point nearest the sky in the gardens, is another pavillion converted into the Temple of Heaven, where food and libations are laid out to welcome the spirits winging their way into this beehive of devotion.

The gardens are marvels of beauty, untouched by modernity. Perfect examples of Chinese landscape gardening. Grottoes appear at every turn of the twisting rock paths; rough-hewn steps lead down to caves that are almost subterranean in appearance and so cool, with their mossy sides and water flowing all around, that one inevitably looks for stalactites.

Up and down these paths and through the caves yesterday went the eager pilgrims, leaving their cool sequestration for frequent stops in the temples to pray and to gather before the pavillions where the spirits transmitted their messages to the faithful.

YESTERDAY'S MESSAGES

The messages delivered in English, yesterday were later recommended to the Chinese as being admonitions which should be followed.

The messages, as they were taken down, word for word as the moving planchette wrote them in the sand following the announcement of the name of the spirit talking, were as follows:

"Wilson: I've dared to do right dare to be true we the feelings

ADMIRALTY CASE IS STARTED IN AMERICAN COURT

Ship's Officers Bring Claim Against The s.s. Owego

Sitting in Admiralty jurisdiction yesterday in the United States Court for China, Judge Milton D. Purdy heard the action brought by F. Diaz, V. Cloherty, E. G. Zimmerman, Chas. Lorentzen, A. Alvasaker and N. Heath against the S.S. Owego, her masters and owners to recover the payment of wages, expenses, maintenance and transportation in connection with their discharge from the above mentioned ship.

Mr. J. W. Schoenfeld appeared for the libellants and Mr. N. A. Allman for the respondents.

The evidence of the plaintiffs, which was taken de bene esse, was to the effect that they were engaged as various officers on board the ship in question at Seattle, signing the usual articles with an extra clause added to the effect that if they were paid off while in an Oriental port, free transportation to the United States would be afforded them, and their wages would be paid up to the day of their arrival in Seattle. The men were paid off on May 31, and immediately left Foochow where they then were for Shanghai, having been provided with money to pay for their fares to the United States by the s.s. Manila Maru, and salary to June 23 on which date they were supposed to arrive home. On arrival in Shanghai, they found the vessel had left for the States three days previously, and that the money given them for their fares was insufficient either for that vessel or others belonging to the company, on which they were unable to obtain passage. Libellants consequently claimed maintenance while waiting for a vessel to take them home, the necessary amount of money to make up their proper fare, and wages until the date of their arrival in Seattle.

At the conclusion of the evidence of the libellants, the matter was continued until Monday next.

Violent Quakes In Many Centers

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—Very violent earthquake shocks are reported from several world centers.

Reuter's correspondent at Faenza, Italy, states that the record of the shock at Signor Bendandi's observatory began at three in the morning and lasted for four hours. It appeared to have occurred 7,000 miles away. The quivering of the apparatus carried off the quills from the instrument.

A Reuter telegram from Capetown says that the shock registered at the Royal Observatory lasted for 2½ hours, beginning at 3.50 in the morning. It was apparently 5600 miles off. A telegram from Sydney says that the shocks were still roaring through the instrument at Rivérview Observatory at 4 in the afternoon after over five hours' duration.

MACDONALD DENIES PACT BUT HERRIOT SAYS IT EXISTS

French Premier Tells Deputies He Got Promise

'NO' FROM LONDON

British Leader Asserts Conversations Were Falsified

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 26.—Submitting an account of the Chequers and Brussels conversations to the Senate and Chamber of Deputies today, M. Herriot said that Mr. MacDonald told him that, in the event of German default in the execution of the Dawes plan, Britain would solemnly undertake to stand by the Allies. Britain desired Germany to give a written undertaking to carry out the necessary measures for the execution of the plan. M. Herriot insisted to Mr. MacDonald on the necessity of a settlement of the question of Inter-Allied debts. The British Premier admitted that it should be taken up without delay.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was cross-examined at question time in the House of Commons today with reference to a statement attributed to M. Herriot in an interview published in the Independance Belge, which aroused furious controversy in the French and British press, that in the event of a premeditated German attack he had received a firm promise that Britain, as in 1914, would be on the side of France and Belgium and that he had the assurance of a firm pact binding the three countries.

Mr. MacDonald complained that his conversations with M. Herriot had been grossly misrepresented and falsified by certain newspapers. The communique issued on June 22 and his statement of June 23 covered the whole ground of the conversations. The reports mentioned in the question were based either on confusion or imagination. There was absolutely no kind of undertaking as regards a defensive military alliance so far as the conversations with M. Herriot were concerned.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 26.—M. Herriot announced in the Chamber today that the United States had accepted the invitation to be represented at the London Conference, officially on questions concerning the United States and semi-officially on questions interesting the other Allies.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, June 27.—The Government have been definitely assured that the conference of Premiers on July 16 will be restricted to discussion of the Dawes plan and will not include the question of inter-Allied debts.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 27.—Following M. Herriot's declarations in the Chamber with regard to expelled Germans, permission has already been given to 30,000 persons to return to French occupied territory. The return of the majority of those expelled will be rendered possible shortly and the majority of those taken prisoner at the time of the Ruhr conflict will be freed.

Nine Sentenced To Death In Leningrad

(Reuter's Service)

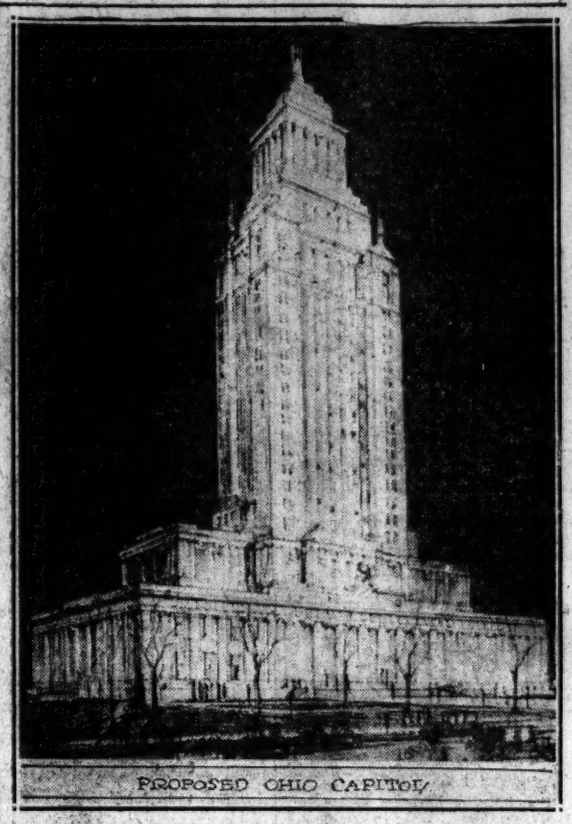
Moscow, June 26.—A telegram from Leningrad states that the Supreme Court Martial has sentenced to death nine persons accused of highway robbery, espionage and counter-revolutionary activity. Twenty-two others were sentenced to varying long terms of imprisonment. All are alleged to have been in the pay of one Savinkoff, who is said to be one of the principal agents in the counter-espionage service of a certain foreign power.

Proposed Changes In Ohio State Capitol



PROPOSED OHIO CAPITOL

This proposal for increasing the office space in the Ohio State Capitol, at Columbus, has been approved by a special committee of the Legislature, and is likely to be formally adopted when the Legislature meets this Fall. The present Capitol constitutes what is the lower flat structure in the above picture. The central tower would be constructed in the courtyard of the present building and provide facilities for the State for years to come.

CHANGES MADE IN PERSONNEL OF MIXED COURT

Mr. Yui Is Senior Magistrate; Two Additional Appointments

During the absence of Chief Magistrate Kwan Chun of the International Mixed Court, who will be away for 6 months' sick leave, the functions of Acting Chief Magistrate will be carried on by Mr. Yui Ying Vong, Senior Assistant Magistrate. A descendant of a well known official family, Magistrate Yui, who hails from Chekiang, studied law at the Government University of Law, from which he was graduated with distinction. Prior to his appointment as Magistrate of the International Mixed Court, he was a presiding judge at the Chinese Court in Nantao. Having presided over many difficult cases of the Mixed Court, Mr. Yui has proved to be a very capable judge and won for himself the high esteem of the community through his profound knowledge of law and wise administration of justice. A number of decorations have been conferred on him including the Grand Cross of the Crown of Italy and the 2nd class of Chia Ho with precious brilliance and great sash. The news of his appointment as Acting Chief Magistrate of the Mixed Court will no doubt be received with general satisfaction.

Other changes of the personnel consisting of the appointment of Mr. Sun Tiao-ting, a former Magistrate of the Mixed Court, to succeed Mr. Cheng Chien-wen as Assistant Magistrate, Mr. Chang having resigned, and the appointment of Mr. Han Chung-chiao and Mr. Shao Shau-wha as Assistant Magistrates.

CANTON ASSASSIN TRAILED MERLIN THROUGH JAPAN

Annamite Tried In Vain To Kill Indo-China Governor General

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, June 26.—It has further come to light that the Annamite culprit, Han Hon-tai, aged 30, who attempted to kill the Governor-General of French Indo-China, belonged to the Annamese Secret Society, which aims at the independence of Annam, and left for Japan together with over ten colleagues about the time the French Governor-General started for Japan from French Indo-China with intent to assassinate him. He was always watching a chance to accomplish his end, but in vain, for the precautions taken by the police authorities in Japan were too strict.

It is reported in well-informed quarters that after his failure in Japan, the culprit returned to Canton by way of Peking, Shanghai, and Hongkong. As it seems more than probable that Korean malcontents have connection with the bomb outrage, the Japanese Consulate-General here immediately started an investigation.

Communist Raves Of 'World Revolt'

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, June 26.—M. Beinkop, a member of the Dutch Communist Party, speaking at the Congress of the Third International, said that the British Empire was the center of gravity of the world's capitalism. The United States was also a stronghold of the same creed. They must concentrate their efforts on the British Empire, because there lay the shortest route to a world revolution.

SHOUTS OF "OIL!" GREET McADOO'S NAME, BRASS BAND AIDS SMITH DIN

Democratic Convention In Frenzy Of Excitement As Names Of Two Leading Candidates For Nomination Are Presented; Police And Firemen Called To Restore Order

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, June 26.—The McAdoo supporters, whose demonstration last night lasted for over an hour, started another demonstration at the resumption of the Democratic Convention today, when the nomination of Mr. McAdoo was seconded. The progress of the McAdoo marchers was somewhat impeded by the Smith cohorts in the aisles. Smith sympathisers in the galleries also started shouting "Oil! Oil!" as a sign of disapproval of Mr. McAdoo.

When order was restored, Mr. Franklin Roosevelt proposed Governor Smith as Presidential candidate. His panegyric ended in storms of cheering, shouting and horn-blowing. The Smith delegates seized the standard of New York State and carried it in procession round the hall, a band contributing to the din. The demonstration lasted for an hour and a half. The demonstrators brought in a brass band, which unceasingly played the popular song of the moment, "Eastside and Westside." A fire siren, used by fire-engines to clear the streets, added to the hideous noise.

Other Democrats nominated less noisily were the ex-Cabinet Minister, Mr. Houston, Senator Ralston and Senator Saulsbury.

FATHER AND SON FIGURE IN ORDER BY MIXED COURT

Former Has Sentence Suspended, Latter Suspended From Practice

Two suspension orders—but of widely differing import—were handed down by Assessor Martin and Magistrate Kwan of the Mixed Court yesterday in the case of Liang Zung-chien, aged former ship's compradore who on Thursday was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for perjury in connection with a previous case having to do with the signature on a receipt for Tls. 5,000.

The sentence imposed on the accused was ordered suspended in view of Liang's age and previous good record, he being instructed to sign a bond of Tls. 5,000 for future good behavior. His son, however, T. C. Liang, local lawyer, was ordered suspended from practice before the court for a period of one year, the Assessor stating that the guilt of the elder Liang was shared to a great extent by the son.

Application for suspension of sentence in the case of the elder Liang was made by Mr. W. S. Fleming, who asked that it be granted on the ground that the accused was aged and infirm, had never been charged before and had always previously enjoyed the best of respect in the community. Liang was formerly a compradore on one of the B. and S. steamers and until his retirement about seven years ago his record was entirely satisfactory.

The Assessor stated that the application would be granted upon the accused signing a bond of Tls. 5,000 to be of good behavior. The Court trusted that the leniency shown would not give the impression that it would tolerate perjury and hoped that the accused would not think the suspension had been granted because of his influential position.

Mr. Fleming remarked that he had told Mr. T. C. Liang to keep away from the court that morning. The Assessor replied that it was unfortunate he had not appeared. He thought the accused's guilt was shared to a great extent by his son.

"We have decided," he concluded, "that he will not be permitted to practice before this court for one year from this date. In making this decision today in his absence I wish to state that there is no injury done to him, because he had opportunity to say anything on his behalf yesterday."

Claims Discovery Of Vaccine Against Tubercular Germ

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 26.—Professor Calmette of the Pasteur Institute claims to have invented a vaccine against tuberculosis, composed of bacilli carefully enfeebled by 230 successive cultures. One hundred experiments were made on animals before 217 new-born children, who presented symptoms of pre-disposition to tuberculosis, were given the vaccine, administered by the mouth. All the babies were under observation during 18 months and so far none have shown signs of the disease developing.

Police Break Up Demonstration In Sudan, 11 Injured

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 26.—In connection with Lord Parmoor's announcement in the House of Lords yesterday that the Government would not abandon the Sudan, Reuter's correspondent at Cairo reports that a Deputy read in the Chamber on June 24 a telegram which he said had been received from Khartum, alleging that the police had dispersed a peaceful demonstration of Sudanese in favor of King Fuad and Zagiul Pasha. Eleven of the demonstrators were wounded and five were imprisoned.

The Nationalist organisation, the Wafd, has issued a manifesto alleging that the Imperialists are suppressing expressions of public opinion in the Sudan and are trying to obtain the confidence of the Sudanese by illegitimate means and faked petitions. The manifesto says that the Wafd, which has assumed the task of realisation of the complete Independence of Egypt and the Sudan, protests very strongly against such methods and informs their Sudanese brethren that the hour of salvation is near.

The Egyptian Senate has passed a resolution protesting against the "English methods towards the Sudan directed at preventing the Sudanese from expressing attachment towards Egypt."

No Action Yet On Wireless Scheme

DISMISS DRIVER OF PIRATED CAR USED BY GUNMAN

Held Not Implicated In Chapei Assassin's Flight

Yui Ah-moo, chauffeur of the commandeered motor car which figured in the escape of the armed Chinese desperado who shot a policeman and a civilian in Chapei Thursday night and then made his way into the Settlement, appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday, when a charge of aiding and abetting brought against him was dismissed by Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li. Mr. N. E. Lurton appeared for the accused.

A sergeant of the Chapei police described the affray in the tea shop at Jukong and Paoshan Roads, to which seven or eight policemen had been sent to prevent an expected fight between loafers. A uniformed constable who dashed upstairs when the fight started was shot in the chest and the assassin was then pursued through the streets to Boundary Road, where, when about 20 feet ahead of his pursuers, he leaped on the running board of the motor car in which Capt. Boyd was proceeding to the railway station and the car speeded up and passed into North Chekiang Road. He could not say if the car was provided for the fugitive.

Mr. Isaacson testified that the car had been ordered by Capt. Boyd and had been sent to his home in Frenchtown, for the purpose of conveying him to the station.

The chauffeur stated that when the gunman boarded the machine he presented his pistol at witness and his fare and ordered the car to drive on "fast," threatening to kill the occupants if he was not obeyed. The chauffeur was convinced that the man would have fired if he had not followed instructions.

The Chapei have three men in custody and expect to effect the arrest of the gunman. The wounded policeman is at Paulun Hospital in serious condition.

Spanish General In Morocco Loses Commissionership

(Reuter's Service)

Madrid, June 26.—General Berenguer, the former Commander-in-Chief of the Spanish Forces and High Commissioner in Morocco, who was court-martialled in connection with the Melilla disaster of 1921 has been sentenced to be removed from the active list and placed on the reserve. General Navarro, who was tried on a similar charge, has been acquitted.

Chinese To Jail For Sales Of Indecent Stories

"Things which may appear indecent to us when translated from the Chinese are not regarded in the same light by the Chinese," argued Mr. Allan at the Mixed Court yesterday on behalf of a shopkeeper named Zee Kuo-zen who was charged with selling a paper called the "Microscope" in which three indecent articles appeared.

"I think that statement is a slur on the Chinese," replied Assessor Martin. "Any decent Chinese would regard them in the same sense that we do."

The accused was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and he was ordered to aid the police in discovering all possible copies of the papers, which are to be destroyed.

Sharks Are Thick In Manila Waters

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 18.—Sharks have become so numerous in Manila Bay that professional divers have refused to go into the water on several occasions recently. One day last week the inter-island vessel, Dona Dominga, reported that a school of sharks followed the ship for half an hour as she was steaming up the bay. During the last two weeks two native fishermen disappeared and the authorities believe they were devoured by sharks.

The diminishing use of dynamite for killing fish in various parts of the islands is given by fishermen as the cause of the increase in the number of sharks which come into the bay in search of food.

Spirit Sayings Recorded At Psychic Session Here

of others one came near(never) save you stand by your conscience (there was some difficulty here in making out the word 'conscience' and the planchette, after some of the spectators had suggested conscience, wrote yes) Your honor your faith stand like a hero and until death."

"Shakespeare: To thine own self be true and it must follow as the night the day thou canst not then be false to any man."

"Jesus Chirst: Love your enemies."

Here the planchette wrote the single word "Stop," and the two mediums rested for a period of about five minutes. Apparently, the call came to them again, however, for as soon as they picked up the planchette again it started describing circles in the white sand and then came the word Longfellow and the following message:

"Longfellow: All that man can do why with wish and patience cannot you? Only keep this end in view Try! Try! again."

A VERSATILE PLANCHETTE

The punctuation in the above, with the exception of the quotation marks, is that of the planchette.

Without any interruption whatsoever, the planchette demonstrated its linguistic versatility by breaking out into a stream of Chinese characters again. These, it was ascertained, advised the spectators that the senders of the four previous messages had, in truth, been Woodrow Wilson, Shakespeare, Christ and Longfellow, and there followed an adjuration to follow the precepts enunciated by these four.

Yesterday, besides the messages from the foreign god and sages, delivered in the Christian temple. On an altar erected before a large picture of Christ, there was received a gigantic Chinese character from a sage of the Han dynasty who breathed through the ether separating him and his age from today, the single character for the word "soul" or "spirit." The previous day on a large cloth probably 15 feet long and 8 feet wide, with a brush the proportions of a street-sweeper's, held and guided for the spirit by two men, there was written another and different character for the same word.

Yesterday, also, spirit drawings were made in a similar manner by Chinese youths who acted as mediums for the spirits of departed artists.

The devotions in the gardens, and the prayers of the adherents and followers of the five great religions will continue three days more.

ARREST GERMAN ON CHARGES OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Alleged To Have Taken Yen 30,000 In Manchuria

E. H. Brunckhorst, German taken into custody here on instructions from the German Consul, appeared in the Mixed Court before Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li yesterday, when it was stated that he was wanted on the charge of embezzling Yen 30,000 in Szepingkai, North Manchuria. He admitted embezzling but denied that the amount was so high.

Chief Detective Inspective Cruickshank told of arresting Brunckhorst on Thursday evening on request of the German Consul, who had received information from Mukden.

The defendant asked the Court if he could not be removed to quarters other than those assigned him. That was his only objection to a remand. He admitted embezzling, but said that the amount was only Yen 20,000. The case was remanded until next Wednesday.

MURDER ATTEMPT

A coolie forman named Eu Tsnyi was charged at the Mixed Court yesterday with attempted murder of police officers, in connection with the shooting affray which occurred at Yalu Road Bridge during the early morning hours of June 6. The accused is charged with attempting to murder Chinese Constables Nos. 1195, 1043 and 1305, who, when they attempted to stop and search three men in rickshas, were fired upon. One constable was shot in the face and three pedestrians were slightly wounded. The accused was arrested at his home in Hwakee Road and it is expected that the other two will be taken into custody shortly.

Comparison

It is obvious that where claims are made, comparison is inevitable. Comparison of the NEW Columbia Grafonola with ordinary gramophones has given it a place in music that no other gramophone has attained in so short a space of time. Comparison of the "NEW PROCESS" Records (without Scratch) with ordinary records reveals all the deficiencies of the latter.

To hear either one is to enjoy but one-half of a great achievement. To hear them in combination is to experience the sensation of a new experience. But to hear them in comparison with ordinary gramophones is to understand the enthusiasm of master musicians and music-lovers alike.

Notice To Subscribers

In an endeavor to produce an even better paper than was formerly the case—an endeavor which the steadily growing popularity of THE CHINA PRESS has proved to be successful—the publishers have recently increased the editorial staff, supplemented the cable and foreign correspondence services, added a pictorial news section, and improved the editorial and feature contents. These improvements naturally entail a much heavier cost of production, and thus we are reluctantly compelled to increase our rates of subscription, as from April 1st, as follows:

One Year	Mex.	$28.00
Six Months	„	15.00
Four Months	„	10.50
One Month	„	2.75

Postage to outports, etc. $6.00 per annum extra.

Under the new rates subscribers will still obtain THE CHINA PRESS more cheaply than it can be purchased day by day on the street. Allowing 312 publishing days to the year (260 weekdays and 52 Sundays), the annual cost, if purchased on the street, is $36.40.

D'OISY IS HERO OF ALL PARIS

Paris, May 25.—"Pivolo," otherwise known as Captain Pelletier d'Oisy, is nowadays a greater hero than Carpentier in the eyes of all Frenchmen. His extraordinary aerial marathon across Europe and Asia, wherein he vanquished the squadrons of four other nations both in point of flying time and distance flown, has put him at the very pinnacle of postwar fame. Previously his name was not so well known to the general public. Though an officer of the Legion of Honor and an ace, appreciation of "Pivolo's ability was confined largely to his colleagues in the air service. Now it is not unlikely there will be a statue erected to him before long in the French capital adorned with sentiments apprising the world of the fact that American, English, Portuguese and Australian squadrons of airplanes were unable to accomplish what was done by this intrepid Frenchman. "Pivolo" is a hero now, and no mistake about it.

Everybody calls him "Pivolo." The newspapers refer to him as that and publish long interviews with "Pivolo's" wife, "Pivolo's" mother-in-law and "Pivolo's three-months-old daughter, Jacqueline. One newspaper, which is conducting one of the interminable inquiries for which French journalism is famous, this time asking athletes what is their favorite literature and litterateurs what is their favorite sport, became aware of the existence of Pelletier d'Oisy only after he had arrived in India. However, the questionnaire was sent to Mme. d'Oisy, who promptly responded that "Cyrano de Bergerac" was her husband's favorite work of literature. Whereupon, after the news was published in the twenty-nine newspapers of Paris, the sale of "Cyrano" increased enormously—much more than they had increased when Rostand's drama was revived here last month.

The Oydssey of "Pivolo," it seems, was to have been a great secret. His departure from Villacoublay was kept quiet, being known only to his immediate family and high officials of the Ministry of Marine. If he had failed in his attempt no one would have heard of it because no one knew the attempt was being made. His wife was sworn to strict secrecy, and only after "Pivolo" had flown the 800-odd miles between Paris and Bucharest in one day did the Ministry of Marine issue a brief communique stating that the flight was being made and why it was being made. Mme. d'Oisy, a wife of about a year and a half, was living on the Rivera, quite unaware of her husband's movements, unaware of everything except that he was flying somewhere on a dangerous mission.

"We were going to start on our honeymoon," she told newspaper men at Nice. "We had never had a honeymoon and it was going to be this month. Instead I received a telegram from Pelletier saying he was going off again somewhere, possibly to Africa, possibly to India. C'est la vie—when you have a very brave husband such as mine."

Yes, "Pivolo" is universally a hero—even to his wife.

Clara And Agnes

I have just seen Clara and I wish I hadn't.

I knew Clara when I was a boy in the high school. When I was sixteen years old she captured my imagination. She had a smiling face, a lithe figure and a pretty wit. I think I was in love with her about as desperately as most boys of sixteen fall in love.

Indeed I remember very well that I took her home from the high school exhibition a night in June, and if you must know the truth, kissed her when she said good-bye at the door, and she didn't object.

Well, as truly has been said men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love. So Clara faded out of the picture.

I heard afterwards that she married a promising politician. Indeed, I may say a performing politician, who became Mayor of the town and Governor of the State and was a director in the bank, and all that sort of thing.

When I met Clara the other day I knew, of course, that she would be older and was not surprised that she was fatter. But the thing that shocked me was a certain hardness that had come upon her. She talked of her husband and of her children. And she had some sort of "work" in which she was engaged. She was president of some sort of club and wanted to know my opinion about certain political and sociological matters.

Altogether in my brief conversation with Clara I was made conscious of the fact that the Clara I knew once was absolutely dead, gone and buried. This Clara resembled her not in the least; no more than a tombstone resembles the occupant of the grave.

And then I thought of Agnes. Agnes I was in love with somewhere about the time that I had finished with Clara. But Agnes died young.

The curious part of the situation is that Agnes is still alive. She flourishes ever green in my mind, she will always be the pretty, golden-haired, lovely thing that she was many years ago.

I do not wish Clara any harm, but if she had only died young her portrait might still be hanging in the gallery of my memory. Now it is gone, smudged out.

Only those who die keep their eternal youth with us. When they live on life destroys it.

If is not death that separates; it is life.

It is impossible to think of Agnes being president of the club or wife of a Senator, or to think of her as being anything else than just a bright girl full of life and charm and romance.

She is the eternal sweetheart.

"The Sheik" is an amazing photoplay which shows you the way an Arab chief makes love to a beautiful English girl he has captured. A thousand wild mounted Bedouins with long rifles and flowing robes obey his slightest wish—ride through the picture like the wind—how shall SHE escape? She sees the slave-brides dance beneath the great canopy for his sultanic pleasure. She is to become one of them unless fate rules otherwise. That is the plot of it! The shiver of it! A story of stolen love, that has sent a new thrill through the English speaking world.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

Pa, I sed to my dad last nite, Pa, I sed, wen are we going to taik a trip to Yurup?

Serch me, Bobbie, sed Pa. Why? sed Pa.

Our teecher sed that peepul shud ought to see other nashuns than ours beefoar thay cud be broad. I toald her I wud ask you to taik me to see them other nashuns so I cud git broad and tall too.

Well, Bobbie, sed Pa, I am sorry, but for the present I think we shall remain rite here in the good old U. S. A., sed Pa.

You are rite, deer, sed Ma. I used to think lots moar of Yurup than I do now, sed Ma. What in the wurld has cum oaver France and England, anyway? sed Ma. Thay used to like Americans.

Thay are jellus, deer, sed Pa, jest plain jellus. Ever since our part in the wurld war, sed Pa, wen our boys jumped in and cleened up so fast, the peepul of Yurup has been jellus. Thay feel the salm toward us, sed Pa, as your other beaus used to feel toward me wen I won yure hart, deer, sed Pa. You can see thare side of it if you stop to think.

But I think it is a shaim that thay are not grateful to us for all we did for them, sed Ma.

Thay are jest a part of hewman nater, deer, sed Pa, and hewman nater is seldum grateful, sed Pa. Moar than onst hewman nater has Bited the hand that is feeding it, sed Pa. We must X-peck that, Pa sed.

I doant know, sed Ma. I have always thot I was part of hewman nater, and I have always been grateful wen you were kind to me, sed Ma.

I wonder, sed Pa.

You wonder what, sed Ma kind of quick.

I wonder if it is evver going to git oaver raining, sed Pa. I am sick and tired of peer-ing at clowds, sed Pa.

What is it, peer-ing I sed.

Rubbering, Bobbie, gazing, locking, sed Pa.

If you meen rubber-ing, why doant you say rubber-ing? I sed. You and Ma are all the time saying words that I doant unnerstand, I sed. Come to town, I sed.

I will cum to town with a shingel in a minnit, sed Pa. You better be careful how you speek to yure noabel sire, sed Pa to me.

I will be very grateful if you leave out the shingel, Pa, I sed. It is very rong to whip chillern. It is not being done nowdays in the best famblys, our teecher sed so, I sed. She sed force was brutile. She sed the day was fast cumming wen love and kindness will rule the wurld.

Maybe, sed Pa, but the way yure teecher looked wen I saw her, sed Pa, she is too old evver to live to see that day, but doant tell her I sed so, said Pa kind of quick. I guess that is all for this onst.

BASEBALL TODAY

Unless there is rain overnight or this morning it should be possible to stage the first game of the Shanghai—Manshu series at the Race Course this afternoon, as per original schedule. The Japanese team arrived night before last and is all ready for the fray.

The Baseball club had a large staff of coolies at work on the grounds yesterday, keeping the drains open and carrying away the surface water. Last evening the surface of the grounds was dry, and if no more rain falls Manager Gallop is confident that the field will be in condition for play this afternoon.

As previously announced, the games with the Japanese stars will be free to all members of the club who have bought their membership cards for this season non-members will be assessed $2 for grandstand seats and $1 for bleacher seats.

College To Have Tennis Tourney

There is to be a Tennis Tournament held at Shanghai College on June 30, 1924, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Tennis players from Fuh Tan University, University of Nanking, Soochow University, Nanyang College, St. John's University and Shanghai College will participate. Each school will play two singles and one doubles.

The winning team will receive as a trophy the Spaulding Cup, offered by Mr. J. H. Scott, Jr., distributor for the A. G. Spalding goods.

INKWELL BANDITS

The Sports Editor of THE CHINA PRESS received a letter yesterday from a correspondent who signs himself. "C. M. W." The Sports Editor, before reading this three page letter, looked for the signature, and on finding that it was signed only with initials, promptly tore it up without reading it and tossed the fragments into the waste-paper basket. If "C. M. W." or anybody else wants to write a letter to this newspaper with any hope of having it read, to say nothing of having it published, he will have to sign his name to it. That goes, net, not only for C. M. W., but for all other inkwell bandits—bandits because if they have anything worth saying, or any courage to say it with, they won't ambush themselves bandit fashion, behind the cover of anonymity.

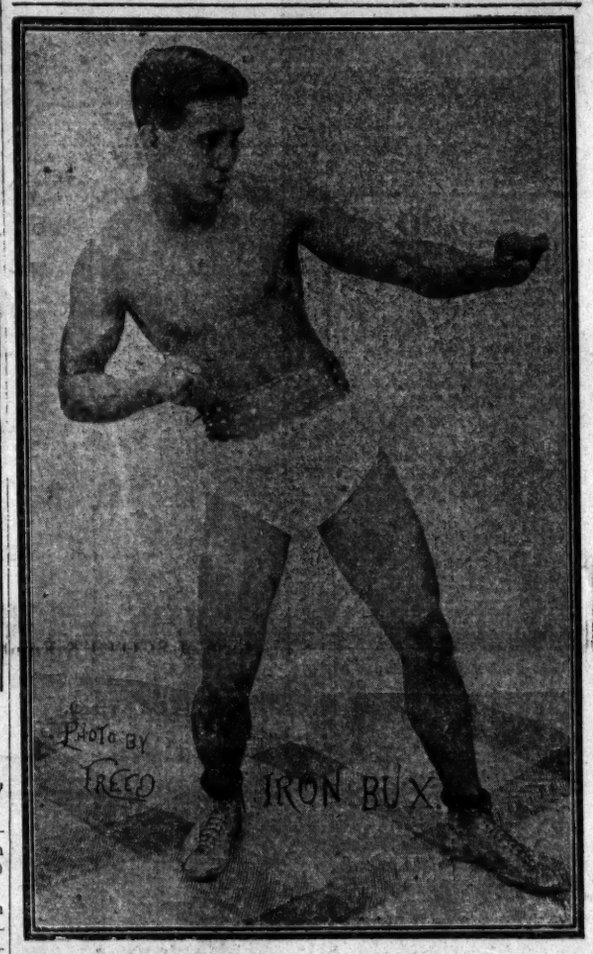
He's Looking For Trouble



This is Iron Bux, the Filipino box fighter who was introduced at the Carlton Thursday night as a challenger of any welter or middleweight at present in our midst. Mr. Bux is one of the best scrappers ever developed in the Philippines, and at one time or another has held every championship from bantamweight up to middleweight. He is open to meet all comers and it is sincerely to be hoped that the Carlton management will arrange a match for him shortly, as the fans are getting rather fed up with seeing the same old faces every boxing night. Why not shoot him in against this bird Nefsky next week?

BROOKS, VETERAN, BEATS AMERICAN IN EXCITING TENNIS

Australian Gains Great Triumph At Wimbledon Championships

(Reuter's Service)

Wimbledon, June 26.—Tennis was played at Wimbledon today under a blazing sun. The heat was almost unbearable. There were 15,000 spectators including the King and Queen.

In the first match on the Centre Court Mr. Norman Brookes beat the American, Mr. Francis Hunter, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2. Mr. Hunter was one of last year's finalists. His defeat by Brookes was a triumph of genius and wizardry. Hunter began brilliantly, but Brookes got into his stride and played continually on the American's back-hand. The final set was very exciting. Two games went to deuce three times, including the last game when a double-fault by Hunter gave Brookes the winning point. Brookes was cheered vociferously.

On an outer court Colonel Kingscote beat Mr. Ritchie 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Other third round singles winners included the British player, Mr. Gilbert, the South African Mr. Spence, the Indian, Mr. Jacob, the Australian, Mr. Wat and the American Mr. Vincent Richards.

There was a thrilling first-round doubles match on the Centre Court when the Americans, Messrs. Washburn and Williams, defeated the Frenchmen, Mr. Borotra and Lacoste, 5-7, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Then the South African, Mr. Raymond, brilliantly disposed of M. Brugnon (France) after a terrific struggle. The score was 8-6, 2-6, 4-6, 12-10- 6-4.

On an outer court the holders of the doubles championship, Messrs. Lycett and Godfree beat Messrs. Ingram and Aitken 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 4-6, 9-7.

In the ladies' doubles Mlle Lenglen and Miss Ryan and the Americans, Miss Wills and Miss Wightman, scored easy victories.

TSINING SCHOOLS HOLD THIRD JOINT COMMENCEMENT

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsining, Shantung, June 24.—Two years ago our Presbyterian Mission Boys' and Girls' Middle Schools held their first joint commencement exercises. This experiment met with such hearty approval from the Chinese that it has become a settled custom and has increased in popularity each year. On June seventeenth of this year the third one was held.

The principals, teaching staff and graduates of both schools, with others participating in the program occupied seats on the platform. The weather was fine and as usual a large number of people was in attendance.

The program was as follows:

Processional .....Both Schools
Invocation .....Rev. Mr. Liu
Song .....Students Boys' School
Essay .....Miss Diao Yue Guei
Piano Solo ..Miss Li Ching Yuan
Essay .....Mr. Li Chung Ling
Song .....Students Girls' School
Essay .....Miss Li Ching Yuin
Piano Solo .....Mr. Li Dzi Sin
Essay .....Mr. Hu Yien Guin
Piano Duet .....Miss Li Ching Yuin .....Mr. Li Dzi Sin
Exhortation to Graduates ..... Mr. Givan
Presentation of Diplomas.
Singing farewell song—Graduates of both schools.
Response to farewell song..... Juniors of both school.
Singing.....''God be with you''
Benediction ....Rev. F. E. Field
Recessional .....Both Schools

During the semester, just closed, co-educational work was introduced into our Senior Middle Schools. This having proved satisfactory, more such classes are planned for next year and it is hoped that they may become permanent features of our schools, thus effecting a considerable saving in teachers' salaries, in both institutions.

Opium Mandate Issued At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 24.—Another opium prohibition mandate was issued last night. It says that mandates ordering prohibition of opium traffic have repeatedly been issued. Apprehension is felt by the Central Government that, owing to local disturbances in remote regions, these mandates are not being fully enforced. Delegates have been sent out from Peking from time to time secretly with the object of ascertaining the facts. Although officials reports state that prohibition is being enforced, it is believed that a certain amount of poppy plantation, opium selling and smuggling is being carried on secretly.

"Since opium was first introduced into China this country has suffered bitterly from the use of this drug. Fortunately China can count on the assistance of other countries in endeavoring to free herself of this evil, but if we fail to take advantage of the opportunity offered to effect positive prohibition how can we fulfil the expectations of friendly Powers? The local authorities, therefore, as their duties involved, must bear the full responsibility in this matter. They must instruct their subordinates accordingly and see that their orders are obeyed, throughout the areas under their control. Prohibition must be carried out absolutely. If the local authorities fail to carry out this order they will be punished and dismissed.

Szechuen Governor Still In Chungking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 24.—According to Chinese telegrams General Teng Hsi-hao, Civil Governor of Szechuan, is still at Chungking. General Yang Sen, Tuli of Szechuan, has repeatedly urged General Teng to take up his post at Chengtu, but the latter states that military affairs still necessitate his presence in Chungking, and he recommends the appointment of Mr. Pei Kang as Chief of the Administrative department of the office of Civil Governor. General Teng adds that Mr. Pei could proceed to Chengtu at once and carry on the affairs of the Civil Governorship, pending his arrival.

Asks Inspection Of Provincial Mints

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 24.—Mr. Wang Keh-ming, the Finance Minister, has applied for the appointment of a permanent High Commissioner to inspect the provincial mints in order to reorganise them with a view to standardisation of the currency. In response, the President has issued a Chihling mandate appointing Mr. Wang Shih-yuan to be Inspecting Commissioner of the monetary system

Real And Imaginary Mathematics

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

In the letters of many correspondents I find a gratifying interest taken in my suggestion that people in general should learn more mathematics than they are in the habit of doing, either in school or after school days. Modern science is placing itself firmly on a mathematical basis. This is true of branches of science, such as chemistry and electricity, which in their beginnings were regarded as purely experimental and totally unconcerned with "x," "y" and "z."

This is Science's day, and you must follow Science's banner or drop out of the procession. But that fact need awake no apprehension of great difficulties to be overcome. After all the kind, or degree, of mathematical knowledge required to follow some of the most abstruse results of recent scientific progress is not beyond easy acquirement by any intelligent person. You don't have to be a skilled computor; you only need to get a clear notion of the principles. And much of modern mathematics is extremely interesting, even fascinating. And a large part of its fascination is due to its intense practicality. It is the boiled-down essence of common sense. Nothing pleases like that.

Mr. Bertrand Russell has done no service to mathematics with some of his epigrammatic paradoxes, such as the statement that "mathematics may be defined as the subject in which we never know what we are talking about, or whether what we are saying is true."

Such a statement might easily drive an earnest seeker after knowledge to an entirely false conclusion concerning the value of mathematical work. No concrete subject is ever illuminated by brilliant word spinning or by carrying it into the clouds of "philosophy." The only kind of mathematics that is of real, of inestimable, use is the concrete kind, which addresses itself directly to common sense, and the tribunal of universal experience.

I have come upon a recently published book, which seems to me to present mathematics in a way calculated to throw a great deal of illumination upon the whole subject for the beginner.

It is significantly entitled "Real Mathematics." Its author, whom I do not know, is an English engineer, Mr. Ernest G. Beck. In direct opposition to Mr. Russell's confusing dictum, Mr. Beck states, as the object of his book, that "it permits (as the human mind demands) the visualisation actual or mental—of the various states and changes which are implied by the operations and processes employed in mathematical calculation and investigation, and thus brings mathematics within the grasp of every normal average human being—for the man in the street can understand the realities of common life as well as the most learned professor, if those realities be presented to him in physical form."

This is excellent. In enforces the sound truth that real mathematics does "know what it is talking about," and does know "whether what it is saying is true." Any kind of mathematics that doesn't not fail to clear up many difficulties of comprehension that discourage the beginner in mathematical study.

In such study everything depends upon the point of view taken at the start, and much also depends upon first impressions while ought to be not only correct but clear and definite. One correspondent writes me that he fails to grasp the use of letters in algebra to represent unknown or undetermined numerical quantities.

This shows the need of the preliminary clearing up of the ground contemplated in the book that I have referred to. It sometimes happens that mathematical processes are so truly pellucid that the beginner looks right through them without seeing them. He cannot believe that such simple things can possess the powers that are ascribed to them.

know may safely be ignored by people who are governed in their thinking and their doing by the realities of existence.

I am sure that careful reading of such a book as Mr. Beck's could

Arms Traffickers Given Six Months

Sentences of six months' imprisonment each were imposed by Assessor Martin and Magistrate Kwan at the Mixed Court yesterday in the case wherein two Chinese were charged with trafficking in arms, having been arrested at the Great Eastern Hotel last week in possession of four automatic pistols and 400 rounds of ammunition. Detective Inspector Sullivan stated that as a result of the arrest a Japanese for whom they claimed to be working had been taken into custody and would be proceeded against. Mr. Lewis, appearing for the accused, submitted that they had given every assistance to the police, were not the principals in the trafficking and were of respectable family. He therefore pleaded for leniency and the Assessor stated that in view of these facts sentence of only six months would be passed, whereas the maximum was 3 years.

Peking To Have Police Tax Soon

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 24.—General Hsueh Chih-hang, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police, summoned the chiefs of the various police districts to a meeting yesterday to discuss the organisation of a Board of Trustees to deal with the distribution of the police tax which will be enforced shortly. It was resolved to appoint representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the Peking Gentry as Trustees, together with a certain number of officials.

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

LETS ARBITRATE

Have you heard of the arbitration movement? It is something to think about. Not an idea or a theory. An established fact. Gaining ground every day.

A New York lawyer and jurist, Moses H. Grossman, conceived it all as an idea. His energy and the co-operation of the leaders of law and business who approved of it established it as an institution. In practical operation today. Worth learning about, thinking about and using to your own personal advantage.

Here was Grossman's idea:

The courts of every city and State are clogged with litigation. Most of it silly and wasteful litigation. All litigation is expensive. And, owing to the clogged condition of the courts, it usually takes years for a case to come to trial. So why go to court? Why waste time? Why pile up lawyer's fees?

"Let's arbitrate," said Grossman.

The Tribunal of Arbitration is now in operation in New York City. In order that you may not dismiss this from your mind as a visionary scheme, here are a few of the people who are actively interested in the project:

Charles M. Schwab is chairman of the general committee. Mr. Schwab is so visionary that he will always pay $19.25 for a $20 gold piece. William C. Redfield, who was Secretary of Commerce in President Wilson's Cabinet, is one of the board of governors. Other governors are Almet F. Jenks, formerly presiding justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York, James A. O'Gorman, formerly United States Senator from New York, Thomas I. Parkinson, vice-president of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, General Samuel McRoberts, president of the Metropolitan Trust Company, David A. Schulte, president of the Schulte Cigar Stores, Franklin Simon, a well-known New York merchant and others like that—all men who would give you $10 for a Rolls Royce car without a moment's hesitation.

And not one of them has any financial interest in this scheme. Because it is not a money-making scheme. Nobody makes a cent out of it.

The scheme is this:

If you have a row or a quarrel or a dispute or a misunderstanding with another person, over money or business or contracts or real estate, get that person to agree with you to submit the matter to this tribunal for arbitration.

The legislature of New York has passed a law that if two people submit a dispute to arbitration they must abide by the decision just as if it were rendered in a court of law.

The officials of this Tribunal will either select one, two, three or half a dozen men to decide your case or will help you and your adversary to select them.

They will see to it that you both agree as to your judges before you begin.

You will get honest, expert judges. They do not have to be lawyers. You will get quick action. No delays. No legal quibbles. No monkey business. Just pure, unadulterated justice. And all you pay for it is the rent of the room for a day or two and whatever the clerical expenses are. You don't even need a lawyer.

It is a great thing for people who have an honest dispute. It's a bad thing for people of the shifty sort who want to take advantage of legal quibbles and of delays. A man who, after investigating this Tribunal, would refuse to submit his cause to its jurisdiction, either has no faith in his cause or has something to gain by procrastination.

Write to the Arbitration Society of America at 115 Broadway, New York, and ask for all the details. The New York Cotton Exchange, the National Association of Book Publishers, the Authors' League of America and a hundred other organisations of similar standing have endorsed this idea.

And, what is most important, many of these organisations have agreed to insert a clause in all their contracts that any and every dispute shall be referred to this Tribunal for adjudication.

It is worth looking into. Because this idea is bound to spread throughout the land.

T. K. K. Will Withdraw From Far East Group

Gives Notice Of Intention To Drop Out Of Conference In 90 Days

The Toyo Kisen Kaisha has given notice of its intention to withdraw from the Far East Steamship Conference, according to an announcement made by Mr. Ueda, local manager of the T.K.K. in New York, who gives the reason for the withdrawal as lack of vessels available for the Atlantic and Gulf trade.

"All of our vessels formerly engaged in the Atlantic and Gulf trade," he said, "are now under charter in the trans-Pacific trade up to the end of the year. Most of them are booked to carry lumber to Japan, while others are to carry wheat.

"Atlantic freight business to the Pacific is not very active now. Our line will return to the Atlantic trade and rejoin the conference later, when we have vessels to spare and conditions have improved. Up to a few months ago we had one sailing every month. We hope for improvement in the general shipping situation in the near future."

The official notice of withdrawal from the conference was given May 14 and will become effective 90 days from that date in accordance with conference rules. The vessels formerly employed by the line in the Atlantic and Gulf service were the Biyo, Choyo, Reiuo, Meiyo, Woyo, Koyo, Hayo, Fukuyo and Kiyo Maru.

The company reports a satisfactory business for the five passenger and freight liners running from San Francisco to the Far East and the four others running between San Francisco and the West Coast of South America.

500 See Exciting Ping Pong Match

While 500 excited backers cheered their efforts experts of the Chinese Recreation Club and the Japanese Y.M.C.A. clashed at the latter's rooms last night in one of the hardest-fought ping-pong tournaments in local annals.

The honors were even—tie after tie resulting—until the final match, when the Japanese players grabbed the laurels. The games at the finish stood at 6 to 5.

The following represented the Chinese Recreation Club: G. M. Gin, T. L. Tsu, Y. S. Chen T. T. Ling, Y. Z. Tsoo, T. M. Ling, B. H. Wong, T. J. Ling, M. P. Sung, T. Z. Song and G. T. Chen.

"DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN ROBIN HOOD"

The Storehouse of History Ransacked!

The age of Romance, Chivalry, Adventure, transplanted from Twelfth century dust and nourished in the genius of a great artist till it blossoms forth into a gorgeous spectacle of Twentieth century realism!

A tenderly beautiful love story in the midst of marching crusades, the clash of broadswords the hum of singing arrows. Robin Hood and his band, Maid Marian and her peril, Sherwood Forest and its greenwood, with the Sheriff of famed Nottingham Town.

DIRECTION BY ALLAN DWAN

Tremendous drama, gorgeous spectacle, yet always human. Stupendous scenes of regal splendour as a setting for the age-old story of Robin Hood and his merry bandits.

AUSTRALIA IS BIG MARKET FOR AMERICAN MOTOR CARS

Took 25,817 Machines From U. S. In 1923

TRUCKS TO JAPAN

Was Leading Purchaser For Commercial Vehicles

Australia was the leading foreign market for American motor cars in 1923, and Japan the leading market for motor trucks, according to "Facts and Figures of the Automobile Industry," 1924 edition, recently issued by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in New York City. Much other interesting information about the automotive trade of the United States is given.

Automotive exports ranked second among other United States exports, with a total value of G. $189,737,018. The number of cars exported was 127,035 and the number of trucks, 24,861; total, 151,896. The number of cars exported from Canada was 57,481, and the number of trucks, 12,439 with a total value of $43,688,488. Assemblies abroad of American motor vehicles (U. S. and Canada) amounted to 107,183; making the total exports of American motor vehicles, including assemblies, 328,999.

The passenger car imports to China in 1923 amounted to 215 cars, each valued up to G. $500 inclusive, total, $79,589; 281 cars, value $500 to $800, total value, $201,633; 305 cars, $800 to $2,000, total value, $345,127; 16 cars, over $2,000, total value, $50,215.

188 TRUCKS TO CHINA

In the same period China took 172 motor trucks, up to 1 ton, value, G. $63,395; 12 trucks, 1 to 2½ tons, value $12,577; 4 trucks, over 2½ tons, value $27,950.

Japan in 1923 purchased 2,504 passenger cars, valued up to G. $500 inclusive, valued at $795,932; 489 cars, valued between $500 and $800, total, $320,970; 648 cars, valued between $800 and $2,000, total, $718,825; 93 cars, valued at over $2,000, total, $268,794.

In 1923 Japan took 4,134 trucks up to 1 ton capacity value G. $1,503,423; 461 trucks, 1 to 2½ tons, value $727,898; and 336 trucks over 2½ tons, value $866,249.

The leading passenger car customers of the United States in 1923 were: Australia, 25,817 cars, valued at G. $18,823,471; Canada, 11,912 cars, valued at $10,272,149; United Kingdom, 7,582 cars, valued at $4,998,942; Mexico, 7,559 cars, valued at $4,254,866; Sweden, 6,744 cars, valued $4,162,801; and Spain, 6330 cars, valued at $4,628,283.

The leading motor truck customers were: Japan, 5,111 trucks, valued at $3,097,570; Belgium, 3,963 trucks, valued at $969,726; Australia, 2,086 trucks, valued at $2,411,835; Sweden, 1,765 trucks, valued at $638,000; Canada, 1,350 trucks, valued at $1,886,002; Spain, 1,117 trucks, valued at $290,473, and Mexico, 1,013 trucks, $662,215.

13,464,000 CAR OWNERS

The report estimates that there are more prospective automobile owners in the United States, on the basis of present population, than there are motor cars registered at the present time. The number of motor car owners in the United States at the end of 1923 was 13,464,000 (not including motor truck operators). The number of persons gainfully employed in the United States, according to the 1920 census, is 41,614,248.

Assuming that the present motor car owners are mostly high-salaried persons, the entire field of those receiving under $1,500 yearly is still unsupplied with motor transportation. While it cannot be assumed that the 28,150,000 gainfully employed non-owners of motor cars are prospects, yet it must be remembered that the rate of income of these persons is not fixed. Millions of them are young people who will increase their earnings.

The survey says that it is important to bear in mind that the growth of the motor vehicle industry depends on the ability of men of moderate income to buy used cars. The ability of this group, for instance, to purchase millions of used cars at $200 each, would have a similar effect to that if they purchased new vehicles, for the purchaser of the used product enables the owner of it to buy a new automobile.

"In general, the process is not selling brand new cars to first time owners, but of pouring in at the top, with the used car being traded in and going to a secondary market. High class used cars, of course, are in competition with new vehicles of similar price."

China Cotton

Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son, Inc., state in their current report:—Since our last report, our market has been generally weak with prices receding from half a tael to a tael from last week's level, which, for a long time, has reasonably been looked upon as only a temporary depression, seems for the time being well founded, on the exceedingly unfavorable trade conditions the world over.

There is little to be said on the crop outlook and the bulk of advices that have come in report that weather conditions, on the whole, have been favorable and that satisfactory progress is being made with choppings.

In the circumstances, we can only reiterate that we expect the ultimate course of prices to be downward, though, in a speculative market, it would be imprudent to ignore the possibility of a temporary turn in the tide after the rapid decline which the market has experienced. With speculators general, short and bearish, a reaction on purely technical grounds would seem likely at any time, but temporarily only.

Yarn.—The market during the past week, has been a shade on the easy side, due to the weakness of raw material, prices having receded from Tls. 1 to Tls. 2 with trading almost at a standstill.

SPUNT AND CO.'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co. state in their report: Notwithstanding the depreciation experienced in the yarn markets and the very small quantity of business transacted in spot cotton during the past week, prices were maintained on the same level as were ruling during the previous period and which was due mainly to the gradual but serious diminution in the local stocks of the raw material coupled with the higher rates prevailing on the foreign staple. However, prices for forward deliveries, on the whole, showed a decline of about Tls. 0.74 cents per picul lower than last reported in that the reports from the various cotton-growing districts being favorable such engendered a strong sentiment in the trade for a bumper crop eventuating for the 1924-25 season.

While there is every probability of a fair average crop materialising, it would not be out of place at this time to make certain allowances for the vicissitudes the growing plant may be exposed to during the critical months of July and August.

Tone of the market: Steady.

Excess Insurance Company, Ltd.

The 31st ordinary general meeting of the Excess Insurance Co., Ltd., was held at 36-38, Cornhill, London, E.C., on April 24, Mr. Cuthbert E. Heath, the Chairman of the company, presiding.

The Secretary (Mr. F. E. Johnson) read the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report.

The Chairman said: Gentlemen,—The report you have before you really gives you almost all the information with respect to our company that it is in my power to convey.

We have to record with very deep regret the death of one of the first directors of the company, my cousin, Mr. George Heath. Mr. Heath, while not putting himself prominently forward, always took a great interest in the Excess, and we shall all miss a personality of sterling worth and kind disposition. To fill his place the board have recommended the election of Mr. A. J. L. Circuitt, one of the directors of C. E. Heath and Co., Ltd., whose knowledge of the intricacies of the company and great energy should prove of much value.

THE ACCOUNTS

To turn to the accounts, you will bear in mind the new way of presenting the results of the different years' working which have recently been adopted. We give you the history of each of the current years from its beginning and not, as formerly, the position merely at the date of the report. We are now dealing with the completed year of 1921. In the opinion of your directors the result is quite satisfactory.

The underwriting profit is over £80,000 on a premium of just over £715,000. To this should be added interest received £47,000. From these sums must be deducted the expenses, leaving a balance, apart from taxes, of £72,000. Included in the expenses, you will notice, are the management expenses for 1923; the corresponding expenses for 1922 were debited to 1920 account. We therefore annually prepay considerable sums.

You were quite definitely told last year that there were very heavy taxes to be met, and we also told you that they would have to be paid out of the reserve which had already been earmarked as partly a reserve for this purpose. These taxes amounted to no less than £208,000. We have taken £200,000 from the reserve and £8,000 out of 1921 profits with which to pay them. We are, however, anticipating getting back some considerable sum out of these payments. Indeed the authorities have already recognised that some small part is due to us, but we shall not be satisfied unless we get a good deal more.

We propose to pay you the same dividend as last year and to carry forward a good deal larger balance than formerly.

As regards the future we have every hope that the years 1922 and 1923 will show respectable profits.

APPRECIATION OF STAFF'S SERVICES

I cannot close these remarks without again saying how much we are indebted to the officers of the company for our results. More especially would I like on behalf of all of us to thank Mr. E. Merrick Tylor for the hard work, his skill and his prudence, in the conduct of the underwriting of the company. The times have been very difficult and it takes a good man to steer clear of the dangers which surround our business. Mr. Tylor has shown himself fully capable of doing so.

I now move that the report and accounts be adopted, and I will ask Mr. Monk to second it.

Mr. T. K. C. Monk seconded the resolution which was carried unanimously, without discussion.

The Chairman then moved, and Mr. Montague Evans seconded, the following resolution:

"That a final dividend of 2½ percent, free of income tax, be declared on the capital of the company, making, with the dividend already paid, 7½ percent, free of tax, for the year.

The motion was carried unanimously.

On the motion of Mr. Arthur Burns, seconded by Admiral Sir Herbert L. Heath, K.C.B., M.V.O., Mr. A. J. L. Circuitt was elected a director of the company to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. George Heath.

The retiring auditors (Messrs. Turquand, Youngs and Co.) having been reappointed for the ensuing year, the proceedings closed with the passing of a cordial vote of thanks to the directors and all concerned with the company for their successful conduct of affairs during the year under review.

Tanah Merah Estates

At the annual general meeting yesterday of the Tanah Merah Estates, the charman addressed the shareholders as follows:

Gentlemen: The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission, follow the usual course and take them as read.

Since the last report, the total area of the Estate has been increased by 5 acres, representing a block of land acquired by the Company in 1920 but not hitherto included in the total area. During the year, 160 acres of waste land were surrended to Government but no adjustments of areas can be made until after the survey and excision of the land from the title. This also applies to an area of approximately 400 acres sold the previous year, the survey of which has still to be undertaken by the Government. When all the necessary adjustments and surveys have been made, the Company will possess 1,817 acres of planted rubber, and approximately 1,408 acres of reserve—a total area of 3,225 acres.

From the time restriction was brought into effect, the earnings of this Company have been seriously affected by reason of the very low export allowance given to the Estate. This was due to the fact that the standard year on which the allowances were based for all estates was a period of compartively low outputs as far as Tanah Merah was concerned, as a large proportion of tappers during that time were new recruits from Java just learning their work. I am pleased to report, however, that under the new method of reckoning outputs, the allowance has been appreciably altered, and for the coming year the standard production has been raised to 566.360 lbs., being an increase of 105,120 lbs. on the original figure. On the 60% basis, this will give the Estate a quarterly exportable allowance of 84,954 lbs. as against 69,183 previously, an increase of 63,072 lbs. for the year. In addition to this, you will be pleased to hear that the re-assessment was made retrospective to November 1, 1923, and for the quarter ended April 30 the allowance was increased to 102,106 lbs. Under the revised assessment, it is estimated that the Company will be able to produce its allowance of 339,189 lbs. at an "all-in" cost of 33 Straits cents, which is equivalent to 9.24d. per lb., but I feel confident this figure will be improved upon.

The position as regards the rubber industry at the present time is an anxious one and it is extremely difficult to gauge what future prospects are likely to be From time to time the question of improving the marketing of rubber by co-operative selling has been under consideration by the Rubber Growers' Association and a Committee has now been appointed to work out the necessary details of a scheme, which, I feel sure, if supported by all rubber producers, will undoubtedly tend to strengthen the position of the industry.

With regard to the accounts, these call for very little comment. The profit for the year amounted to Tls. 25,008.40, which, added to the amount of Tls. 31,850,88 brought forward from last year, makes a total of Tls. 56.859.28 standing to the credit of profit and loss account. Whilst the result might appear to justify a small return to shareholders, your Directors are of the opinion that the interests of shareholders will be best served by deferring any distribution of profits until the price of rubber is such as to insure the Company working at a reasonable profit. The present price, as you are aware, leaves much to be desired and barely covers cost of production. The Directors, therefore, regret they are unable to recommend the payment of a dividend, but should conditions improve, they will give this matter their first consideration.

Mr. Wyld has continued his excellent work as manager and the Directors take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of his services and those of the Estate staff, the local agents in Penang and of the visiting agent.

Before putting the resolutions to the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions shareholders may wish to ask.

RESOLUTIONS

At the conclusion of the chairman's speech, the following resolution where submitted to the meeting and passed:

That the report and accounts for the year ended March 31, 1924, together with the recommendation as to appropriation as to balance at credit of profit and loss account, as presented, be accepted.

That Mr. Chun Bing-him be re-elected a Director of the Company.

That Messrs. Thomson & Co. be re-elected auditors to the Company.

Japan's Business Leaders Condemn Boycott Movement Against American Goods

Agitation Is Unwise And Unrepresentative Of Japanese People As A Whole, Say Prominent Financiers

Tokio, June 19.—Japanese business leaders in Tokio are condemning the boycott movement against American products as a retaliation for the new American immigration law. Without exception these leaders label in unmistakable phrases the anti-Japanese agitation s unwise and unrepresentative of the Japanese people.

Viscount Shibusawa, for 30 years in the limelight as one of the most ardent workers for America-Japan amity, in a statement to newspaper men yesterday scolds the Japanese who he says are being taken in by the handful of firebrands and agitators.

MOTIVE IS UNWISE

"The motive which prompts this boycott is sincere, but the method taken is extremely unwise", he said. The Japanese people are following the footsteps of the Chinese who started a boycott against Japanese goods some time ago, and at whose action the Japanese people laughed. This nation should be calm and refrain from rash action. We must remember our position among the world Powers

"Discrimination must be made, however, between a boycott against the American goods and a boycott against luxuries. If the Japanese carry out a boycott against all luxuries it should not be confined to American goods but all goods of this kind, Japanese and foreign. The need for such a boycott is greatly felt at this time.

"However, I regret the enactment of the Japanese exclusion measure and I think it but proper that we should endeavor to have the offensive law modified as much as circumstances permit."

BANKER LAUGHS AT MOVE

Mr. R. Ichinomiya, vice-president of the Yokohama Specie Bank, who is a well known figure among foreigners here, says: "The cry for a boycott against American goods appears to be loud, but I doubt if this movement will spread throughout the country. Both Japan and the United States must buy from abroad the things that are needed in their respective countries. The extensive trade carried on between Japan and America will not be affected so easily by a flash of passing sentiment directed by the minority.

I receive questions from American residents here regarding the recent Imperial Hotel incident and the boycott against American goods, and I always reply that the hotel incident and other unpleasant incidents are not the work of the majority of the Japanese no more than the Japanese exclusion law in America is the opinion representative of the majority of Americans' and that if the reverse had been the case, far more serious results would have happened long ago.

"We should refrain from encouraging an anti-American boycott, but there is no need for us to be nervous. Such an affair happens frequently in other countries. We need not entertain any pessimistic view of future America-Japan trade."

URGES INDUSTRIAL STRENGTH

Mr. E. Sugihara, vice-president of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, says: "The Japanese exclusion legislation is not only against the international principle of justice and humanity, but an open insult to Japan, who finds itself among the first rate Powers of the world. It is but natural that the Japanese should feel resentment at such an affront, and I am among those who are indignant.

"However, it should be considered that America's exports to Japan represent only 10 percent of her total exports abroad, and Japan's nation-wide boycott against the American goods would not affect her exports to any tangible extent. Under these circumstances, we can become indignant, but cannot retaliate for the offense by adopting a boycott measure.

"What we should do at this juncture, therefore, is to urge America to reconsider the wrong she has done to Japan and repent her action. For this purpose Japan must build her national economic strength on a firmer basis. Industries must be encouraged and developed. America will surrender to us when our industries flourish and the economic strength of this country is more consolidated.

HOLDS UP WAR FEAR

Mr. S. Miyajima president of the Nisshin Spinning Company, says: "The proposed measure in favor of a boycott against American goods lacks consideration and is an action unbecoming a great Power of the World. The boycott might encourage home industries, but this self-sufficiency should be encouraged at all times.

"Japanese exclusion is not a policy indorsed by the majority of Americans, who remain indifferent to the exclusion agitators. If the Japanese people should resort to rash action, American people will adopt a retaliative measure towards Japan. We should try to imagine America-Japan relations in such an eventuality, and refrain from inconsiderate actions."

POINTS TO TRADE BENEFITS

Mr. K. Yamagishi, director of the Mitsubishi Trading Company, says: "The enactment of the Japanese exclusion law is most regrettable, but we should be considerate in adopting measures to meet the situation. We rely on America for the supply of cotton, machinery, wheat, lumber, etc., from which we gain much benefit, while America buys silk from us. We must take this fact into consideration and refrain from drastic action unbecoming a great nation of the world. The Japanese people in boycotting luxurious goods should not confine themselves to American goods but all luxuries regardless of the countries where they were made. The people should not act in a way calculated to bring loss to this country. We should never forget that wealth and strength are most important from the point of self-defence. In this sense we should refrain from inconsiderate actions at this time."

China's Place In The World's Cotton Situation

THE world cotton situation recently was discussed in most interesting and understandable manner by Mr. J. Howard Ardrey, of the National Bank of Commerce of New York, who stated that the cotton textile industry of the world faces a situation in the market for raw cotton without parallel in its recent history. "Despite the decline in prices, which has taken place since January," says, Mr. Ardrey, "cotton now is relatively high when measured in terms of the general level of commodity prices, and it is also high in relation to the prices of most competing fibres. In addition, the price is subject to such wide fluctuations that an abnormal hazard has been introduced into those businesses dependent wholly or partly upon cotton as a raw material." Continuing, he, in part, says:

"The invention of the cotton gin one hundred and thirty years ago gave the American cotton-growing industry its great initial stimulation. The vailability of cheap virgin land climatically suited to cotton production and the presence of slave labor were the basis of the expansion of the American crop up to 1860; after 1865 (when slavery was abolished) abundant cheap labor and the use of relatively new lands preserved the advantageous combination which experience thus far has proved to be essential to the production of cheap cotton.

"The present level of prices for cotton textiles with the consequent tendency toward restricted consumption is by no means solely the result of the relatively high price of cotton. High labor costs in the cotton textile industry, the result of high wages and short hours, have contributed to the advance in the price of cotton goods. Nevertheless the high price of raw cotton and the extreme uncertainty as to its future course are the major factors in the situation today.

The article then gives the following figures showing the world cotton production from 1901 to 1923:—

The decline in American production in recent years, due to the boll weevil menace, according to Mr. Ardrey, has stimulated other countries to increased production of cotton. From 1901 to 1915 there was a material increase in cotton production outside of the United States, but the gains, in his opinion, were much too slow and irregular to justify the conclusion that other cotton-growing areas possess the combination of land, climate and labor requisite for quantity production without the stimulus of high prices. The British Cotton-Growing Association, especially, has maintained an active propaganda designed to develop supplies supplementary to the American crop. The following table shows the world's cotton production by countries:—

WORLD PRODUCTION OF COTTON BY COUNTRIES, 1913, 1922 AND 1923.

(In Thousands of Bales of 500 Pounds Gross)

All other countries	592	444	874
Totals	22,612	17,647	19,125

*Unofficial estimates.

According to this table, aside from the United States, only five countries have thus far produced more than a half million bales of cotton a year—namely, British, India, China, Egypt, Brazil and Russia. Egypt, one of the largest producers, is also suffering from the depredations of the boll worm, which injects an uncertainty into that situation. In referring to the possibility of increased production in China, the writer states, in part:

"China's crop is similar to that of India and its increase is subject to many of the same limitations. Painstaking effort to improve its quality has failed so far of any very considerable realisation. China, like India, has land and climate suitable for cotton and low-cost labor of agricultural bent, but there is always the competition of the essential food crops to be reckoned with. China's total crop is unknown, but it is believed that as much as 2,000,000 bales may find its way into Chinese mills and export channels from the 1924 crop. This is about three times the estimated commercial crop of 1913. Political disorganisation and internal strife, which make a difficult transport more precarious, general lack of scientific methods of seed selection and cultivation, and the Chinese peasants' natural aversion to change, all militate against the wide introduction in the immediate future of superior types of cotton."

The author concludes his discussion of the cotton situation in America and the world thusly; "In view of the situation which prevails today, there is no cotton-growing area of the world which promises to duplicate the conditions of the old South, namely, production of cheap cotton by means of extensive agriculture carried on upon low-priced and fertile lands by means of abundant supplies of cheap and relatively efficient labor. In the United States and elsewhere the situation might be altered radically and suddenly by mechanical inventions which would lessen the labor costs of cotton growing, just as the invention of the cotton gin revolutionised the industry in 1793. If supplies of cheap cotton are not assured an adjustment eventually will be made between supply and demand at higher price levels. In such countries as India and China, where the purchasing power of the masses is very low, it seems not improbable that the result of such an adjustment would be a lessened use of clothing. In richer countries, the comparative position of cotton textiles would be determined only after a new struggle between cotton and its chief competitors, flax, wool, silk and artificial silk."

"An Occidental Outrage"

UNDER the above caption, the Peking Daily News, one of the more reactionary Chinese-owned newspapers in the capital published in the English language, administers a verbal bastinado to the captain of the British gunboat Cockchafer, who, the paper avers, "has qualified as a highly accomplished member of the Federation of Pirates and Bandits by his disregard for law and international practices in his dealings with the Chinese officials and people in Wanhsien." Such an ejaculation comes with poor grace from the newspaper of a country the officials of which have as yet made no serious effort to curb the piracy and brigandage which have been going on to an unbridled extent year after year. The paper goes on to say: "Whatever may be the provocation of the occasion, there is certainly no law in which a captain of a gunboat is justified in taking the law into his own hands and exacting satisfaction by threats of bombardment. In any other country, this would be considered as a cause of war, and Britain might have a fight on her hands through the ignorance and barbarous action of the captain of one of her gunboats."

The obvious retort to that is that the Wanhsien junkmen had no right to take the law into their own hands and kill an innocent and inoffensive foreigner any more than the captain of a foreign gunboat had the right to threaten bombardment. And the offence is all the more heinous in that there appears to have been no attempt on the part of the Wanhsien authorities to stay the hands of the murderers, and it is a fair presumption, in view of the surrounding circumstances, that there must have been some conivance on the part of the officials, otherwise it is well nigh inconceivable that a crime of such a nature could have been possible. Chinese officials have been known on occasion to act with surprising speed when it comes to dealing with such things as the suppression of intended student demonstrations and similar movements against the Government. Our Peking contemporary says that, in any other country, acts such as that of the gunboat captain would be considered as a cause of war. Precisely. But there is little danger of the latter-day reactionary officialdom in China declaring war on any foreign Power that is able to defend its interests. China's soldiers and bandits declare war only on their own people and on individual foreigners, well knowing that the foreign Powers will never go to war with China in the interests of individuals—a consciousness of which Chinese officials take a mean advantage and of which they never fail to make capital.

We do not know whether the Peking Daily News is serious when it goes on to suggest something which would be laughable were the matter not so tragic. "If a murder of a foreigner has been committed," it says with astounding nonchalance, as though the taking of human life is a matter of little consequence, "satisfaction could be obtained from the Chinese Government which has its officials stationed in Wanhsien. In the whole history of China's relations with foreign countries, China has never yet failed to give full satisfaction for any damages done to foreigners." How is it possible to reconcile such an extraordinary statement with the long list of entirely unredressed outrages which fill the musty pigeon-holes of the Chinese Foreign Office in Peking? What about Lincheng, to say nothing of the innumerable other atrocities which stand as a blot on the escutcheon of the Chinese Republic? It was precisely because the captain of the Cockchafer was well aware that nothing would be done without the most drastic action that he took the extreme step. In the ordinary course of events, the arrival of the American Consul from Chungking would have been awaited, followed by an official inquiry on the spot, and the customary evasions and obstruction on the part of the local authorities when called upon to arrest and punish the culprits. The commander of the Cockchafer, who presumably witnessed the tragedy, or at any rate was acquainted with the details thereof a few minutes later, decided to take matters into his own hands, and the threats he employed had an immediate effect. Under what Comrade Trotsky would regard as the unjustifiable notion that a murder is a murder, even when it is committed by Chinese, and a foreigner is a victim (we are here quoting a northern contemporary), the British naval commander insisted that Mr. Hawley be buried with every mark of respect, and that the instigators of the crime be summarily executed. Both of these demands were complied with, and when Mr. Spiker, the American Consul in Chungking, reached the scene of the outrage, he found that the punishment for which, in the ordinary course, it would have been his duty (unavailingly) to press, had already been meted out, and that the senior military official at Wanhsien was ready with assurances that all necessary measures would be taken for the protection of foreign lives and property.

The captain of the Cockchafer must have taken the action he did in the full consciousness that he was doing so at the risk of being reprimanded by his superiors, and even of dismissal, but he upheld the best traditions of the British Navy by placing morality above material considerations. And, in this connection, we cannot do better than quote a pregnant passage from an editorial in the Peking and Tientsin Times on the subject:

> What used generally to be known as the "gunboat" policy has rarely been adopted of recent years, and we have no desire to see it generally reintroduced, though we were not greatly impressed by Rear Admiral McVay's description, to a Peking audience, of what could be accomplished "by persuasion and calm talking with the obstreperous Yangtze militarists." There are occasions when something more than persuasion and calm talking are necessary, especially when a foreign warship is on the scene of an outrage, and is able to intervene before the local officials have had time to formulate plans for evading responsibility. Mr. Hawley was an American citizen in British employment. We do not, doubt, however, that the Commander of the Cockchafer would have assumed the same responsibility for obtaining immediate redress, if he had been the manager of an American firm. Admiral Washington, only a few days ago referred to the spirit of cameraderie which prevailed between the British and American navies, instancing the sporting action of an American destroyer in conveying Captain MacLaren's new aeroplane from Hakodate to Akyab. The action of the Commander of the Cockchafer merely shows that the same spirit animates the British Navy, whether the assistance most acceptable takes the form of a peaceful mission, or the securing of reparation for a brutal crime.

Trade Marks Again

THE resolution which the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has sent to the British Foreign Office expressing grave apprehension at the action of a minority of 56 members of the House of Commons voting against the China Indemnity Application Bill on its second reading, indicates a somewhat novel point of view. The Chamber appears to believe that this measure should pass the House of Commons by a unanimous vote, and while such an event would add considerably to the action which the British Legislature contemplates, it is a little difficult to see that those who do vote against the proposed measure, should suffer any criticism whatever. It is possible for members of a legislative assembly to be in thorough agreement with the principle of a proposed measure, and yet, on account of the manner in which it is proposed to apply those principles, find themselves opposed to the bill. In this particular case, however, the minority members seem to have adopted the view that no ex gratia gifts should be made to the Chinese until some modification of the iniquitous Trade Marks Law has been obtained. We are not disposed to agree with that view, particularly having in mind the promise which was given to China. That was unconditional, and it would seem that the British Government is bound to give effect to that promise directly it is possible to pass the necessary legislation. It was for that reason that we ventured to express our support of the attitude taken by the British Premier in the matter some little while back. On the other hand, those 56 members who voted against the second reading of the Bill rendered, we believe, no disservice to British interests in the Far East, but rather, by their action, served to show that they expect, and rightly so, that China, in her dealings with Britain, should evince the same spirit which Mr. MacDonald's Government has shown.

Despite the fact that a very substantial number of British concerns in China have taken steps for the registration of their trademarks under this new law, the Manchester Chamber finds it advisable to suggest that its members should take no such step, and to refrain from doing so pending negotiations for the reform of the law. We think this is unwise, for two reasons. The first is that if British concerns on the spot realise the necessity of complying with the law, even though they are agitating for its alteration, those at home would be well advised to do the same thing. So far as we can see, this involves no sacrifice of principle, and is the right thing to do. And for support of this contention, we would appeal to the second reason which we advance. Foreigners in China are trading not entirely as an axiomatic right. It is true that, by treaty, they are empowered to do so, but this creates only a statutory right, not involving, so far as we can see, the question of the protection of trademarks of those so trading. That appears to be a contingency which has arisen since the first permission to trade was given.

Conceding that the Trade Mark Law is bad—and there appears to be little doubt that it is—it is a sorry thing that an august body such as the Manchester Chamber of Commerce should advise its members not to register under it. If registration is mandatory under the law, then the Chamber in question is inciting its members to disobey that law. If it is not mandatory, then it is urging its members to adopt a recalcitrant attitude, which can avail them nothing, if the Chinese Government remains obdurate, and may work to their ultimate prejudice. The Chinese Trade Mark Law is not the only obnoxious enactment which people have had to obey in the history of the world, nor is it the only one cap-

SELF-STARTERS

What you need, man, is a Self-Starter. You go along all right when somebody cranks you up, but that kind of a machine is getting more and more out of style.

You have fine staying qualities, but poor starting qualities.

You have patience, perseverance, honesty, fidelity, and so on, but don't seem to be able to start anything.

Including yourself.

Now, good and faithful workers are needed in this world, for there's a deal of machinery to keep running, and chores to do, but there are also a lot of people to attend to such things, as they can't do anything else.

And if that's all you can do, or all you want or hope to do, well and good. I hope you'll get your due wages, be a faithful member of the party, and die in your bed.

I throw no bricks at you, I hope you'll be respected, protected, and even, upon occasion, uplifted.

But if you want to rise from the ranks, step out, and be Somebody, you'll have to get you a Self-Starter.

For only the Self-Starting folks arrive at the grand show on time to get an aisle seat up in front.

I notice from your conversation that you lay a good deal of stress on Luck and Acquaintance and Having a Pull and all that sort of thing.

I'm not denying these are good things. They help a fellow get along. But the trouble is they are of value only to the man that can get along without them.

Everybody helps him who helps himself, nothing succeeds like success, and the only man everybody wants to lend money to is the Banker.

So, after all, there's nothing to it. Whatever you do, you must do it yourself—you must begin, anyway.

You study too much about how to succeed, you consult other people's opinions, you are long on referendum and short on initiative.

Nobody showed Marshall Field how to do business. Nobody was responsible for John D. Rockefeller's money except John D. Rockefeller himself. Nobody had to stand by and pat Admiral Dewey on the back and tell him to cheer up, when he went after the Spanish fleet at Manila. And nobody cranked up Mark Twain, or Lloyd George.

They had Self-Starters.

Go get you one!

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

Designers use their wits to keep the fat woman in the picture.

Never are fashions really designed and evolved to please or suit the fat woman—at least nowhere this side of Turkey, where brides, so they say, are fattened before their marriage like geese before Christmas.

For if there is one thing certain about the fashion of any land or season—it is that it is the product of the youth of the period. And youth is—generally speaking—slender.

Of course there may be certain features about a given fashion that help the fat woman. But so surely as any given fashion favors the fat woman in one particular you will find another particular that is very trying. Now, for instance, the straight long waistline favors the woman who is not especially slender through the waist. But the present fashion leaves no camouflage for redundant hips. Loosely draped sleeves may be charitable to too solid arms but short skirts show the girth of too ample ankles.

With every change of fashion a new problem confronts the fat woman or the designers and dressmakers whose business it is to costume her. Some rules and principles remain throughout. Black is ever and anon a good choice—so sometimes is navy-blue. Stripes up and down, fringes, heavy laces, vertical panels, long tunics are well known "slenderising" agents. But there is always this to guard against them—the chance lest the fat woman allow herself to become standardised as well as slenderised. Even now long heavy black silk or chenille fringe with black satin is apt to suggest the stout woman, so immediately, through the mere law of association, that any fat woman is likely to defeat her purpose in employing the device.

The sketch shows something by way of departure—a black satin slip with brown lace over it—a combination that really does hide pounds of overweight but that has been very little worn as yet. With this frock there is a brown lace scarf.

Smart frock for the stout woman. It is of black satin combined with brown lace and narrow lace scarf.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

BY MARY MARSHALL

ARE HIGH SHOES COMING?

The woman with too-thick ankles wishes to goodness that high shoes would come back into fashion. She imagines—rightly, no doubt—that if she wears high shoes, laced tight for several hours a day, her ankles are then slenderer for the house when she wants to wear slippers. Of course she could wear high shoes regardless of fashion—only really nowadays a pair of high shoes is so exceptional as to look positively conspicuous.

The idea that high shoes are necessary to strengthen the ankles is barely met with nowadays. The time was when young girls were carefully guarded against the perils of low shoes and slippers. They were never allowed to go out with low shoes when the temperature was below summer heat, apparently, and they were even sent to dancing school with high shoes, lest dancing in low shoes should weaken their ankles. And little babies were always started out in life in high shoes. To do otherwise seemed like an invitation to tottering ankles.

But there is somewhere a desire even now to go back to the high shoe. In some of the smartest of shoe shops you may see a few very high-grade high shoes. A few well-dressed women affect them for walking—a very few—and the shoe dealers feel that these women may have some slight following even though the high shoe is not actually revived for many seasons to come. On the other hand, there are some who actually predict that the high shoe—not possibly in the form we have known it within recent years, but in some form or other—will be worn again, at least in cool weather.

able of reform. But obedience being the first requisite of the law in our home countries, seems all the more so in the territory of a friendly nation. We may kick as much as we like, but it certainly does seem necessary that we should observe that degree of compliance with the law which we would expect and enforce in our own countries.

As we remarked when dealing with this matter some weeks ago, other means still remain for obtaining redress for any injustice which might be caused by the operation of such a law, but they need not be contemplated until the ordinary methods of negotiation have been exhausted, but in the meantime the cause of the foreign merchant is not likely to be enhanced by the adoption of an attitude which places foreign traders outside the operation of the law, and deprives them of whatever modicum of protection the enactment was designed to give them.

20-Ton Tug Crosses The Atlantic Ocean Under Own Power

Crew Of Frail Craft State They Never Expected To Come Out Alive

What is believed to be the smallest vessel ever to cross the Atlantic under its own power, the 60 tons salvage tug, Salvage Prince, reached Montreal on May 1. Her master, Captain J. C. Leslie, a Glasgow man, and his crew of 12 men, returned by the White Star-Dominion liner Canada, which reached Liverpool from Montreal recently. Interviewed, Captain Leslie said the tug was built by Messrs. Cochrane and Son, of Selby, on the Humber river, for Captain Pyke, of Kingston, Ont., for use on the Canadian Lakes. Captain Leslie and his crew took the little tug from Hull on April 11, and handed her over at Montreal on May 1. "It was the worst experience I've ever had at sea. During the whole 20 days we had very heavy swells, and our decks were under water most of the time, often shipping as much as three feet of water. We burned a hundred tons of coal in 20 days, and I think it was due to the lightness of our craft that we got through. We were just carried on over each heavy sea like a cork. The crew lost most of their effects through damage by sea water, and we were soaked most of the time."

An extract from the log reads: "April 17, 6 p.m. Vessel hove to. Rolling heavily. Cabin, forecastle, &c., flooded. Many articles of crockery and stores destroyed. 11 p.m.: High confused seas all over the place. Spray flying everywhere." This was but one of several entries.

Captain Leslie went on to say that for the sake of saving time they went the northern route, by the North of Scotland, Pentland Firth, and straight across to Cape Race, instead of by the southern route, via Azores and Bermuda, which was usually taken by very small vessels. They sighted some big icebergs. Though the tug was entirely new, she behaved splendidly, and they did not suffer any serious accidents. The crew endorsed everything their captain said regarding the extremely bad seas, and referred to one particular night when half way across—"We never expected to come out of it alive," said one, and the others grimly agreed.

MEN AND WOMEN IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Below: H. GRINDELL MATTHEWS & MRS. CHARLES D. GIBSON

H. Grindell Matthews, British inventor, claims to have discovered a wireless "death ray," by which he says he can bring down airplanes and wipe out armies miles away. Dr. Adolf Lorenz, Vienna's famous bloodless surgeon, has been sued for $60,000 in Westchester County, N. Y., by David L. Evans, who alleges his son, Evan A. Evans, was injured by "careless, negligent and unscientific" operations. Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, of New York City, wife of the artist and sister of Lady Astor, will second the nomination of Governor A. E. Smith for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. William S. Silkworth, former president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York, has been indicted there by a Federal Grand Jury on charges of aiding and abetting in the operation of an alleged bucketshop.

Mending Defective Children

By Henry Smith Williams

A little learning is proverbially a dangerous thing—but perhaps less dangerous, in most instances, than total ignorance, if the subject be one that touches directly on personal and racial welfare. A case in point, it seems to me, is furnished by the publicity that has been given in recent years to the activities of certain curious bodily organs known as ductless glands. These include the pituitary and pineal bodies in the brain, the thyroid and parathyroid glands in the neck, the thymus gland in the chest, the supra-renal glands above the kidneys, and parts of the interstitial structure of several other organs—possibly of many or even of all organs.

The accredited function of ductless glands, and of cells operating in ductless fashion, is to secrete into the blood stream socalled "hormones" that strangely influence the growth or development or normal functioning of other organs and bodily structures, from the bony framework to the mind-controlling brain cells. The calls of the body structure as a whole, aggregated into such organs as muscles, digestive apparatus, blood-forming apparatus, and the like, may be likened to the soldiers of an army in scattered divisions, to which hormones are sent as messengers from the headquarters of the commanding officers, located in the ductless glands.

The messengers themselves seem insignificant, but the results of their communicated orders may be momentous. If the hormone messenger-service is in normal operation, all may be well. The interruption of the service may result in utter disorganisation and disaster.

Suppose, for example that through some trouble at headquarters the thyroid-hormone service is defective, in case of some unfortunate child. The disturbance of nutritional and developmental progress will soon be evident, and the child may present not merely a distorted body but a markedly defective mind. That these symptoms are due to the lack of thyroid secretion may be demonstrated, in certain cases, by the administration of thyroid extract medicinally, restoring the child to normality.

To make the proof doubly conclusive, children thus restored have been observed to relapse into partial or complete imbecility when the thyroid treatment is unwisely discontinued.

Now for the application of my opening comment. It seems well that such facts as these should be known to all parents, and in particular to parents of children that depart from the normal in any way; in order that the parents may promptly secure competent medical advice to determine whether, in any individual case, the "hormone balance" is at fault. And the good that may thus result seems to outweigh the danger that the person who gains a "little learning" in this still obscure branch of physiology will make false inferences, to his disadvantage, or perhaps be victimized by charlatans who already are trading on public half-knowledge of the energizing and rejuvenating power of the mysterious "glands."

The present possibilities of scientific restoration to normality of defective children by the use of thyroid extract are illustrated in an article in the Journal of Heredity by Dr. Max G. Schlapp, of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, Director of Children's Court Clinic. In calling attention to the heartening results of such scientific use of thyroid medication, I would again warn the reader that remedies so potent for relief may be harmful if misapplied, and should never be administered except under competent medical supervision. Nor must it be supposed that all defective children will respond to hormone treatment in any event.

200 Secret Societies In Philippines

(Reuter's Service)

Manila, June 15.—Approximately two hunderd secret and fraternal societies are now in existence in the Philippines, according to an official report by the Intelligence Office of the Philippine Constabulary, which asserts that most of the labor troubles in Manila as well as in the provinces are due to the activities of these societies. The report also declares that the agrarian troubles, which flare up at intervals in the provinces of Central Luzon and Negros, are attributable to these societies.

In Manila alone there are 135 secret societies and the majority of these have been organised during the last three years, according to the constabulary report.

In Occidental Negros, a rich sugarcane district, numerous cases of lawlessness have been reported and officials declare that rivalry between two of the most powerful of the secret societies has been at the bottom of the trouble. Governor General Wood plans to visit Negros shortly to make a personal investigation of the situation with the view of stamping out the many petty crimes which have annoyed both planters and laborers in that district.

St. John's To Hold Exercises Today

The commencement day exercises and the conferring of degrees will take place today at St. John's University at 5 p.m. If the weather is fine, the exercises will be held out of doors. In case of inclement weather, they will be held in the Assembly Hall in Yen Hall. Tea will be served in the Library at 4 p.m. Addresses will be made by Dr. Carson Chang and Mr. O. M. Green.
